

Home Page

This is the page users see when they first log-in to the website. They can use the search bar(not displayed) to look for teams, players or referees. They can also check specific sports by clicking the “sports” link on the navbar or check their own profile by using the dropdown menu on the top right.

Sports List Page:

This page is a running list of all organized sports available on MatchUp currently. Here players or teams can choose a game to play in based on sport and team size (1v1, 5v5, etc). Choosing a team sport takes the user to the team list page

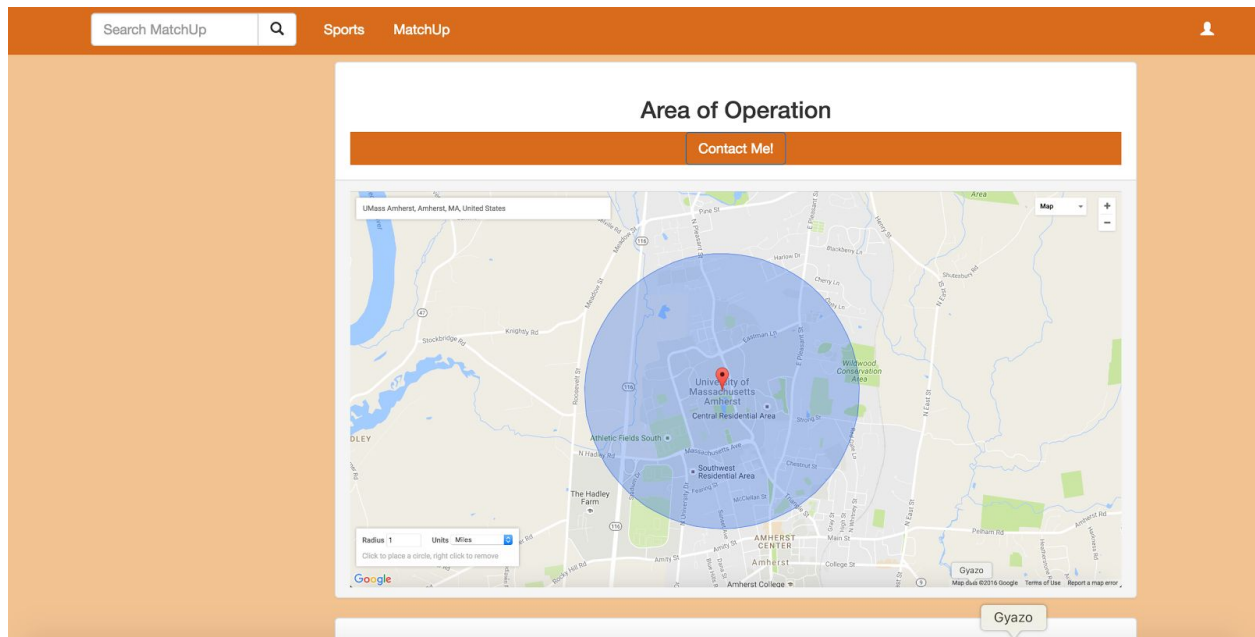

Player Schedule:

This page is a calendar that displays all of the players upcoming games and events in one organized space.

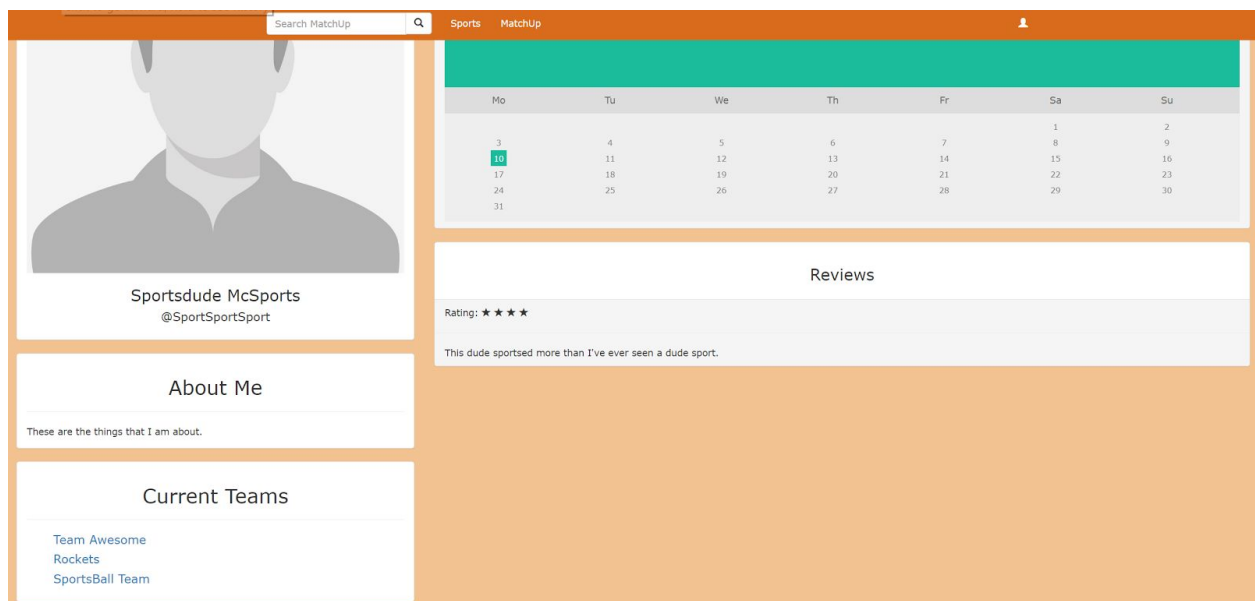

Search Team Page y y

Once a team has selected the sport they would like to play, or have a specific team in mind, they are brought to this page which shows all the teams which fit the match that they are looking for. At that point, they have the opportunity to view the profile of a team or to challenge the team right from this page.

Referees page

This page displays a specific referee's profile information, and also allows users to contact that referee.

Here we have the player profile page. It has all the information about a player such as their sports experience and the current teams they've played on. It also has a reviews column which shows all the reviews other players have made for them. Their own schedule shows up here in a smaller format as well.

Here we have the team page. Similar to the player profile, every team will have a profile which describes their team and what sports they play. It also has a roster on the right hand side as well as reviews of the team on the bottom.

Contributions

Ilan Shenar

I created the welcome page as well as the majority of the navigational bar for the welcome page and the standard navigational bar for the other webpages. I also helped link together all the pages by adding the connecting links to all the web pages in the navigational bar and on individual pages. I also helped compile the write up.

Nicholas Hower

Helped with the navbar. Created profile page, whose purpose was to be a profile page. Contains a miniaturized schedule, which will link to the actual schedule page. Also contains a description of the user and any reviews that other players might have left about the user. On top of that there is a comprehensive list of teams the user is a part of, which links to each team's team page.

Kimberly Smith

Created the left sidebar which displays the player's profile on all pages. Created the sports list, which includes each sport available on MatchUp. Through this page players can choose a game to play in based on sport and team size. Also created the schedule page which consists of a calendar that player's upcoming games are displayed on.

Adrian Poveda

Created the referees page, where users can see information about active referees in their area. The page contains information about the referee, a list of their recently refereed games, the referee's area of operation and reviews users have left for that specific referee. Also compiled the writeup.

Max Galat

Andy Caccavaro

Created the search page. When a team wants to find a game, this is the page they will be brought to. It will show teams within whatever radius they have chosen. The page consists of team names, a short summary about the team, and also allows a user to challenge the team or view a team's profile.
